Open days: THREE community open days are being held this month to provide more information about Fife's first commercial wind farm. The events, organised by Kennedy Renewables, the company behind the project, will take place on Monday, August 6 from 2.00 - 8.00 p.m in Auchtertool Village Hall; Tuesday, August 7 from 2.00 - 8.00 p.m. in Beath and Cowdenbeath North Church and Wednesday, August 8 from 2.00 - 7.00 p.m in Lochgelly Centre, Studio Room. The open days will allow members of all three local communities to receive an update on the construction of the wind farm and speak to a representative from Kennedy Renewables. A short exhibition will also display how the project is progressing. Stephen Klein, chief executive, said: "The construction of Little Ralith wind farm is on schedule and should allow Kennedy Renewables to start generating green energy in Fife before the end of 2012."
